Hi all Apologies for delay in my reply – I am back from work related travel down in Great Southern and trying to catch up on the 'non crisis' emails. I think any assessment of David at this time needs to be fresh, absolutely. He has declined so much and has had so many falls (and probably many unwitnessed ones) ; that I see such a different cognitive situation that when he was in hospital. The reason I raise this is the attached reports I have show a very different picture of David following an extended admission in Albany; in a context where he was still hoping to repair relationships with his wife and return home. You would note for example the doctors considered David capable of making medical decisions at the time.	$0.00

picked up gelnn germon from his house at 11am,wed 7th april. drove to the city with glenn, discussing davids background history. made contact with david, to let him know his brother glenn was here to visit, as david had told me he was open to seeing him in the past. today david wasnt happy to see him. david stated to me that his legs were hurting. i had a look at his legs and he asked me to touch them, and they were rock solid and inflamed. i asked david if he wanted a doctor, and he said yes.i tried calling street doctor, but noone was available. i asked david if he wanted an ambulance, he said no too much drama. i advised david he needed medical attention, and i would bring my car around. he agreed. i parked on barrack street with hazards on and david got inas well as gell and we went to royal perth hospital. we got david checked in, but he got agitated when doctors tried to treat him, stating he had to go back to his spot as he had people to see. he would not allow treatement. david then walked out of the hospital, Dr tom the emergency registrar advised us they want to keep him in hospital for ttreatment as they are worried about his heart condition not being treated, but they could not make him stay against his will.i was concerned that his halth will deteriorate unless he can be treated, and that he is not acting in his own best interest by refusing the medical care. it is very clear (from my perspective)davids understanding of the reality of his circumstances is limited. i called dean tingey his guardian, who advised he will look into getting a SAT order for medical guardianship started. I agreed this was necessay. i advised dean, i will set up a in street care plan with another provider to attend to davids care needs as well as we can given his refusal to accept accomodation. dean advised he will consent to this if its suitable. david left hospital, and began to walk off. we met with him and asked if he needed a lift or if he wanted to use the accomodation we had organised. he refused. david then walked off. i took glenn home who was visibly upset seeing his brother in this state, as he hadnt realised how rough he was sleeping, and his lack of hygeine. got home at 5pm
