Amber is experiencing domestic abuse and is need in off assistance. SC called the police and advised the current situation she is in and how unprofessional the police were to ask how amber was in front of her partner when domestic violence was recorded. Sc spoke directly with the mental health police officer who met Amber at the park with her 3 children. Amber consented to speak with the police officer as Amber was not answering the phone at the time. Police were unable to locate Amber, and sc spent the time on the phone with the police officer. Amber will be putting a restratining order in shortly and have a move on notice. SC stated to Amber to keep SC updated and what she would like to do as she can assist in locating another home until the move on notice has been lodged. SC contacted DCP and advised of the situation and the safety plan in place that has been broken. SC advised DCP of the living arrangements for Jamie and the current supports from both parents. Paul is a gaming addict who does not help with the children. This resulted in Jaime being left at the bus stop last week until 10:30pm as Paul did not want to pick Jamie up. Jamie was outside waiting in the cold stormy night with no form of transport. SC also advised of the emotional abuse that has been occurring in the household. Subject: Not sure if useful info but...

Hi Terri,

I was going through some old CPFS paperwork (was trying to find something specific as a friend needed some information) and I'm not sure if any of this will be helpful for you to have.
I have a lot more of course, I have heaps from 2011-2019 I think it is. Please let me know if there are any specific paperwork you would like a copy of. I have court documents, letters, many Safety Plans, etc. I don't have ALL of them, but I do have a significant amount.

The paperwork I'm sending in this email is my copy of the current Safety Plan for Yasmine, Tobias and James Wilson, dated 05/09/2019.

Information that has changed or was incorrect:

Safety Network
?Leah- no longer a support
?Lorraine- no longer support worker (retired)
?Tisha- no longer a support
?John- no longer a support
?Emma- no longer a support

Harm Statement
?I never drove down the freeway or anywhere else on the wrong side of the road, obviously as there are not even lights on the freeway and hasn't been since as long as I can remember. And yeah, I went through lights in 2011. I didn't mean to but by the time I realised, I didn't care, wasn't to purposefully cause harm and I didn't cause harm. It isn't the only time my words had been twisted out of context.
?The sexual abuse and sexual abuse attempts, from Lexi towards Yasmine and Tobias, hadn't been going for a year. Had been going on since the prior year? Yes. It was no sooner than 28th November 2018 until no later than 22nd Feburary 2019 (I think that was my discharge date but I could be incorrect). I had let a nurse know I was concerned that Paul likely wasn't following the previous Safety Plans, and something could happen. Unfortunately I was right. She took my concerns to CPFS thankfully.

Safety Plan
?5. I utilise safe people to care for my children as needed, whether or not they are one of the ones identified in the document. CPFS knows of and approves this.
?6. I don't understand that section. I think they mean "as needed" since that's what the context was at the time. They write things weirdly sometimes.

tly) and of course, appropriate supervision in that case. Typically, when camping, Lexi has the choice of using his own tent or sleeping in the enclosed annex. When we drove to and from Coober Pedy, Lexi slept next to me as I wake with any movement near me (yup, even my partner rolling over, farting, just walking into the room, etc wakes me ??).
?5. Of course that then and now came with the exception of masterbating ones self in a private room (toilet, bathroom, their bedroom), in private (door closed, curtains closed, no one else in the room). ?And the caveat of no photos, videos, calls, etc added as the kids have gotten older and gotten devices.

Subject: Unsure of Security

Hi Terri,

First up, Lexi, she came home and was in bed. Not sure when as I have even more difficulty in the evening/night than during the day, so especially at night, can't get out there in such weather. She never came inside the house yesterday.
Last night, I had asked Paul if he'd seen her today.
He said "Nope" then "After this one I'll go check her room"
"this one" meaning, the round of the game he was playing. A round on that game can be anywhere from 5mins to over 60mins long.
"her room" meaning the caravan.
10:27pm is when he checked, so thankfully not a long round, or at least didn't have long left. Almost 10mins after asking him because finishing a freaking GAME is more important that my child's SAFETY!
Like, yeah, she was safe in bed, but we hadn't know that yet. Anything could have happened, especially on a dark, stormy night when he wouldn't even go pick her up to ensure a safe trip home through Kwinana!
He had just been laughing and playing on his game instead.
My friend up in Wanneroo offered to come down cos I was freaking out and wanted to go look for her, especially as I didn't trust him to at that stage. I was going to take her up on that offer but then found out Lexi was home, thankfully.
I hadn't asked Paul sooner because he generally gets pissed off when he's gaming and asked to do something, which I could handle if he only had attitude against me but he has woken Lexi to yell at her before, and with her already deciding not to come inside, I was really anxious what Paul would do and what repercussions that would have on Lexi.

The other issue, I'm not sure how safe messaging is, whether via my phone, laptop or any of my accounts. A while ago now, Paul set up Microsoft Family Link, with himself as 'Family Manager' which means he can track everyone's activity. Not to mention, when we got our Samsung S7s a few years ago, I thought that we were just able to pool data because we went as family/married but it's not that, I actually don't have any permissions to contact Optus on my own behalf, it's all under Paul's name instead. So I don't have an account I can sign into to see what he can actually see when it comes to my calls, txts, etc. I'm getting increasingly paranoid that he is able to access even my deleted messages. I know that he is also more tech savvy than myself and last night I got paranoid that he may be able to remotely view my screens and maybe even go through my information, whether laptop, phone or both, so I switched off my phone until he was asleep and logged out of everything on my laptop. I've updated my passwords again on F acebook, Google account, etc since then too. He's asleep right now, so I can be reasonably sure that he can't see this, which is also why I didn't send through an update on Lexi last night once she was found safe in bed. I don't think there's currently any programs that can record screens being accessed remotely, but because once he is up, he's on his computer from when he gets home from dropping the kids at school (sometimes sooner) until he goes to bed any time between 10pm-4am, I don't think it will be safe to message anything about him and I need to delete screen shots I have of his, though I've shared a decent amount of them via Facebook Messenger to date and with my password updated there, they should be safe, just not my photos on my phone/laptop as it's all back up onto cloud, which he has access to. I've sleeping with my phone hidden on my person and in my pillow this past week and once I've sent this, I'm going to turn off ability to find my device, even though if my phone gets misplaced or taken I won't be able to find it, but it means I'll be able to at least go places without it being recorded, which means I can use a phone booth and go to places I need him to not know about and can get things sorted.

Like, there was NO reason for him to track my phone when I didn't reply within 10minutes unless he knows that I'm planning on leaving, as he knew I was out with a safe friend, with 2 of the kids and told him I wouldn't be back until later in the evening, so any justification he may have thought he could use, like me disappearing back in 2016 and 2018 (well and the 4th Jan 2019 but I class that as 2018 still as it was part of that), it isn't able to be used. Each time I disappeared, I did not take the kids with me, nor was I with anyone, I also had more mobility than now, had a car and was able to drive, so yeah, just 100% inappropriate to track my whereabouts and I've been getting increasingly worried about what he can access of my information. I've had previous abusive partners that have gone through my phone devices, and that was with partners that didn't even work in IT and there wasn't such easy to use ways to do anything remotely, they needed to actually have my device in their hands. I also know from experience what can happen when someone tries to get out/get their kids out of an abusive situation. Heck, my Step-Father would kidnap my Brother or more of us, calling the cops and mental health emergency response services saying she had gone crazy, then beat her once the services dropped her off to him or once she was released from hospital. He would tell her, and them, that it was paranoia because of her schizophrenia, which may have been possible, but I freaking seen the shit he was do ing. He would say that he's only ever hurt her in self defence and denied that he ever hurt me, that it was all in her head. She was the one fighting back in self defence and to try and protect me. It didn't help that the few professionals that considered my Mum was actually telling the truth told her that if she hit him back, then she was just as bad as him and deserves it. When I wouldn't go home when Lexi's bio-father wanted me home, he threatened to send the police to "collect" me, like I was property, not a person. He sent his mates (they were all big Maori blokes, including him) to come collect me instead since the police wouldn't, and they physically assaulted my friend whose house I had been at (I was at the shops by then, buying food because I was not going back to him after his threats). Yasmine's bio-father, he broke into my house and threatened to kill himself after threatening me. I had to call the cops to get him removed from my home. Paul has already said enough and has enough control over my stuff that I can reasonably believe he could threaten to hurt himself, hurt me or just not tell me that he could fuck me over digitally, since most of life is digital these days, including government paperwork. I know I sound crazy and paranoid but I'm not stupid and others have seen things and know what can go wrong trying to leave him or even with successfully getting out. I have no choice but to play it extra safe here on out. I need to go through and delete all my messages that have any mention of me leaving him or even the shit that he does, including this one, so please don't reply directly to this email, or at least exclude all but the very first paragraph from being copied into the reply, and don't make an email that has anything in the header or body that has anything suggestive of me leaving in it. And any calls, please always ask who it is and if you can have a private word with me if it's going to include anything about the abuse going on at home or us leving him, in case it isn't me who answers or I have to have the call on speaker.

Hi Katarina,

Thank you for your response regarding Jamie Wilson.

When speaking with the NDIS, they advised this was not assigned to a consultant and without any quotes. I had this escalated to a team leader as this places the participant at risk.
Please send through the quotes and I will jump on the phone to have this actioned.

Regarding the Letter, this was completed by a counsellor. Can I kindly request a AT form be completed also for this piece of equipment?
Regarding the behaviour intervention plan I will bounce of Amber and hopefully get a referral sent off as soon as possible, if we do not send this referral through the NDIS will not implement the funding the next plan.
