09/11/2021	Blake Sadler	1 hr 30 minutes	General Notes	Update with plan	I called up gosnells legal aid to ask about the change off the court order as the circumstances of the children had changed. The issue arose that if the funding from the fathers side was used but the mothers side unused, then the funding would be cut as the 50% court order was in place. The legal support advised me to contact the NDIS, who then advised me to contact the plan manager. I organised with the NDIS to send out a review for a new plan but they had said a new plan has already been sent out and is expected to arrive on Friday. The plan provider manage it said that once they received the plan they would pass it onto me. I called Renato afterwards to inform him of the updates and that NDIS would consider change of circumstance even with the court order in place.	$150.21
08/11/2021	Blake Sadler	2 hrs 30 minutes	Meeting	Meeting with Renato	 Large Note printed below.	$250.35

Left the office at around 1:45pm to meet with Renato and introduce myself to 3 of his 5 children all on NDIS plans. The main focus was Josiah of course.

We spoke about whether or not therapy was still necessary and when Dominique arrived later at around 3:45pm. The discussion did get a bit more broader in the context of what would actually be best suited for Josiah.

Renato gave me a copy of the legal document of the court order that the court, himself and his ex wife Therese agreed too. He's highlighted the areas of where the affects would be for Josiah and his NDIS plan.

We spoke about positive reinforcement and what's some options and services that we should look at. Most common service was psychiatric or psychological therapies that actually focus more on the positive behaviour adaption. Renato explained that at school Josiah is a saint but when it comes to home he can be angered, ill tempered and rebellious. The way that Josiah as well as his brothers are treated between the two parents is vary different.

After looking through notes, Josiahs plan ended in September and isn't due for a review until april 2022. Funding is still there an available but Leah, previous worker of FFG, has stated that a new plan has been made and sent out but only to Therese. Renato said he would follow up with the NDIS in the coming days to get an idea of what's going on.

Legal advise and aid was an option willing to be provided for Renato to help Josiah more as he is spending more and more time taking care of the 3 of the 5 children then the wife is, Josiah included.

Finally I got to spend some 1 on 1 with Josiah aswell as brother Joshua and Jonah. The brothers have a good relationship between the 3 of them all with suspected diagnosis of autism.

Potential meetings with NDIS to see updated plan and funding as well as psychological groups to see the best step forward, along with legal aid and support are the targets to get the best help for Josiah and potential his 2 other brothers living with Renato.
